

ENTENTE
FLORALE
EUROPE

ENTENTE FLORALE EUROPE

ENTENTE FLORALE EUROPE (EFE) is a Europe wide award scheme for cities, towns and villages Founded in 1975, and currently the following European countries are members.

Czech Republic

Germany

Hungary

Ireland

France

Italy

Each country selects its entrants from a national competition, and on this basis, thousands of communities in the countries are enabled to participate.

Entente Florale Europe raises awareness of the importance of the green environment to the quality of life in participating communities, in residential, urban, and rural areas. This is important because as populations grow, the density of living areas within Europe is increasing. The provision of green spaces and landscaping provide the necessary counterbalance required to preserve quality of life.

Our aims

- To encourage the development and maintenance of landscaping, parks, and green spaces in harmony with the natural and built environment.
- To encourage and promote environmental awareness and the inclusion of “green issues” in the education of children and young people.
- The promotion and development of green and environmental policies for the improvement of quality of life and tourism.
- To raise and establish committed civic and community participation.
- To improve better publicity of the importance of these aims and serve as a communications medium between communities on a European wide basis, enabling professionals to exchange information and develop long term partnerships.

ENTENTE
FLORALE
EUROPE

ENTENTE FLORALE EUROPE

Benefits and opportunities

1. Entente Florale Europe provides a catalyst for change, which results in appropriate treatment of nature and the environment, the protection of heritage, involvement of future generations, and acceptable urban development improving quality of life.
2. Support and involvement with Entente Florale Europe broadens understanding of green issues and opens new perspectives for future development.
3. A green city improves quality of life for residents, improved healthy living conditions and promotes loyalty and care of their environment.

4. Involvement with Entente Florale Europe is a powerful marketing tool to promote the community for business and tourism development.
5. Participation stimulates successful and sustained civic and voluntary participation.
6. Participation in Entente Florale Europe can give a substantial boost to local tourism industry.
7. Entrants are assessed on site by an international jury and preparation for their visit including the mentoring process beforehand, is both an audit check and provides a means of measuring success and finding areas which would benefit from improvement.
8. The jury visit, related preparations and awards achieved, are a powerful communications opportunity for the press and interested parties to promote the advantages of living in a greener environment.
9. There is the potential for exchange of information between participants, encouraging and sharing best professional practice.

Results and return on investment

- The results of participation in Entente Florale Europe can be seen in the improvement and development of landscape enhancement and improvement of green spaces in villages, towns, and cities.
- High quality landscape treatment of public spaces is a positive location factor for investors and will support economic development. This happens through increased civic and community participation. Local inhabitants develop a greater awareness and commitment to their environment.

ENTENTE
FLORALE
EUROPE

ENTENTE FLORALE EUROPE

Participation

There are two ways that cities, towns, and villages can participate in this international award scheme.

1. A country may become a member of AEFP through an organization, institute or government department that organizes a national, country wide competition with similar aims to Entente Florale Europe. The member then chooses one, two or three entrants from each country for participation in the award scheme.
2. Public Bodies and local communities in countries that are not members of AEFP may apply to have an assessment carried out by the jury of Entente Florale Europe.

Costs

Annual membership for a participating country is €2,500.

Other main costs include the preparation of the community being assessed on the jury tour.

Travel, accommodation, and catering costs for the jury, while inside the country when visiting to judge, are covered by the participants.

National bodies fund the cost of their jury members travelling to the beginning of an adjudication visit and returning home when the visit has ended.

The international jury

The International award scheme Entente Florale Europe is organized annually. The International Jury consists of members representing each participating country.

Jury members come from the different professions associated with the criteria of the award scheme: landscape architecture, amenity horticulture, architecture, urban planning, environmental protection, economic development, tourism, and public administration.

ENTENTE
FLORALE
EUROPE

ENTENTE FLORALE EUROPE

Judging Criteria - There are ten criteria:

Planning and Development, Sustainable Environment (incl. climate change mitigation), Built Environment, Landscape, Green spaces, Planting (permanent and/or seasonal), Environmental Education, Effort and Involvement, Tourism and Leisure, Communication, (marketing and presentation).

Organization

By the end of each year, one, two or three entries are submitted to the Secretary General by each country for the following year's assessment. The itinerary for the judging tour of the various countries is devised at the jury's spring meeting.

After judging, the results of the assessment, certificates, and medals, are presented to the participants at a formal prize giving awards ceremony at the end of September. The awards ceremony is hosted by a different country each year.

The Board of Entente Florale Europe, and the jury have their meetings twice a year in spring and autumn and several other online meetings in-between. The yearly budget and election of officials are approved at those meetings.

National Funding Bodies and Advice

The aims and activities of AEFP are supported by government departments in the fields of rural and community development, tourism, agriculture, landscape design and development. They are also endorsed by professional bodies such as the International Federation of Landscape Architecture (IFLA), the European Council of Spatial Planners (ECTP-CEU), World Urban Parks (WUP) and there is a partnership agreement with Communities in Bloom. Participants in each country include a variety of voluntary organizations which work with municipalities and business interests.

EFE can provide advice to any country interested in organizing a national competition, with the aim of taking part in the Entente Florale Europe award scheme.

Secretary General: info@entente-florale.eu
6 Coolamber Park, Knocklyon, Dublin 16, Ireland. D16Y1F7

www.entente-florale.eu